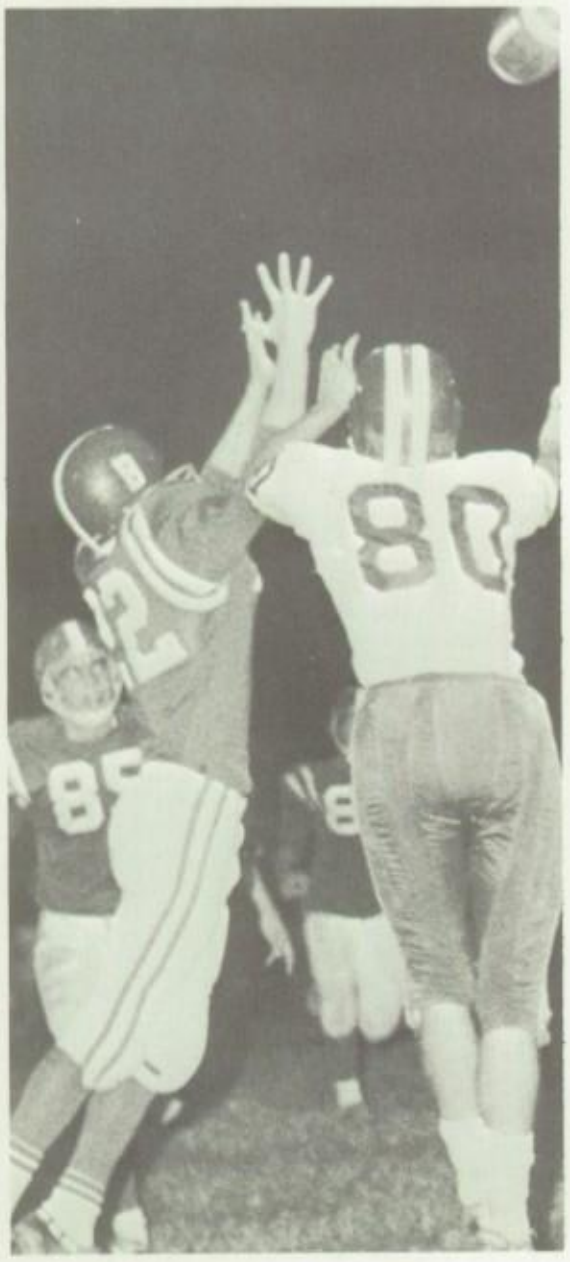
Honor Code Experienced By Students



Riches and honor are what men desire; but if they attain to them by improper ways, they should not continue to hold them.

CONFUCIUS

FOREWORD

An ennobled code of ethics signifies uprightness, and realizing this, the students of Louisa County High School adopted an Honor Code in the spring of 1967. Hence, each person has accepted the responsibility of upholding high standards and has elevated himself morally, physically, and mentally.

Honesty holds an integral part in every aspect of high school life. Good sportsmanship in athletic events, a genuine interest in academic studies, fervid participation in clubs, and co-operative relationship between students and faculty merge to create in the students of L. C. H. S. the intangible necessity of integrity throughout their lives.

During these formative years, when our lives are being shaped and molded into adults of the future, we find that in us must be embodied honesty and uprightness. Thus, the Honor Code at Louisa County High School is an attempt to exemplify that truly HONOR ENNOBLES.

"A teacher is a guide to treasures of knowledge and enjoyment, an usher to a seat in the world."

FACULTY

New Principal Assumed Responsibilities

Mr. Smith diligently attacks another of his numerous daily chores.

Mr. Pardue hands the daily absentee list to Mrs. Hollins to be typed.

As though the usual duties of a high school principal were not enough, Mr. Norman Smith had the added responsibility of heading the evaluation committee at our school this year. Despite this time-consuming job, maintaining discipline, and arranging school curriculum, Mr. Smith kept things running smoothly in his first year as principal at Louisa County High School.

Besides the normal duties of assistant principal, Mr. Harry Pardue taught three classes of Algebra I. Included in his everyday duties were supervision of the lunchroom, general tasks of athletic director, arranging for officials at games, sale of tickets, and having charge of the bus drivers.

Mrs. Marcia Hollins, the school secretary, not only watched over the office, but did the bookkeeping and handled most of the school money. She also issued passes, typed reports, and was receptionist.

Futures Were Shaped Through Guidance

Mrs. Alice Martin and Mrs. Dorothy Deane led a very busy and active life this year as the school's guidance counselors. In addition to planning the student's schedules, the counselors gave standardized tests and had personal interviews with students to find out their capabilities, and to help prepare them for the future. Two programs, College Night and Career Night, were offered to help students select colleges of their choice, and to choose the particular field into which they wished to go.

For most students at L.C.H.S., the library proved to be a valuable source of information. A wide variety of books in various categories was available to all. Mrs. Eugenia T. Bumpass, librarian, worked diligently to keep the library in order and to see that books were returned promptly. Slides on the Dewey Decimal System and Card Catalogues were shown to the eighth graders to help them become better acquainted with the library.

Senior English students express their creative talents with these projects on Canterbury Tales.

A strong background and knowledge of the English language seemed to be the theme of the English department this year. Beginning with grammar, the eighth grade students faced basic sentence structure and the mechanics of writing. They then advanced to all types of literature – sports, plays, poems, adventure stories, and short stories. The third and final step was to put together their own compositions, using a combination of the things they had seen other writers use.

Freshmen, also, practiced grammar, using a slightly different technique. They began with literature, then advanced to Shakespeare's Romeo & Juliet and Homer's The Odyssey. Among their varied activities were book jackets and projects on literary works. While writing, mostly informally, they deepened their knowledge of style and form.

As sophomores plunged into public speaking, they soon saw the need of a broad vocabulary. With the aid of video tape, they heard their own mistakes. Julius Caesar was read and certain parts acted in skits.

American literature came alive as juniors trod the path to discover the influences of great American authors. After they understood the basic influence of the older writings, they were urged to do the same with the contemporaries. They, too, practiced writing mechanics as they displayed their creative ability in short stories, themes, and compositions.

The creativity of seniors was brought out not only by writing, but also by creative projects. Such were the much enjoyed projects of Macbeth and The Canterbury Tales. Public speaking and skits based on books also added life to the class. Plato's Republic and Golding's Lord of the Flies were two books read and discussed in class. The senior year was highlighted by a senior English class trip to see Camelot at the Virginia Museum Theater.

Along with new French books came new tapes for both beginning and advanced French students. Those taking French I made calendars to depict the various months of the year. In the more advanced classes, learning to speak fluently was the main undertaking. Customs of the French people were also stressed.

The revision of Latin books enabled students to maintain their high scholastic standards in their two year Latin program. Derivation posters and Christmas cards were made by the Latin students to make the course more interesting and educational. By using maps, recordings, and other audio-visual aids, teachers added further dimensions to their language program for academic students.

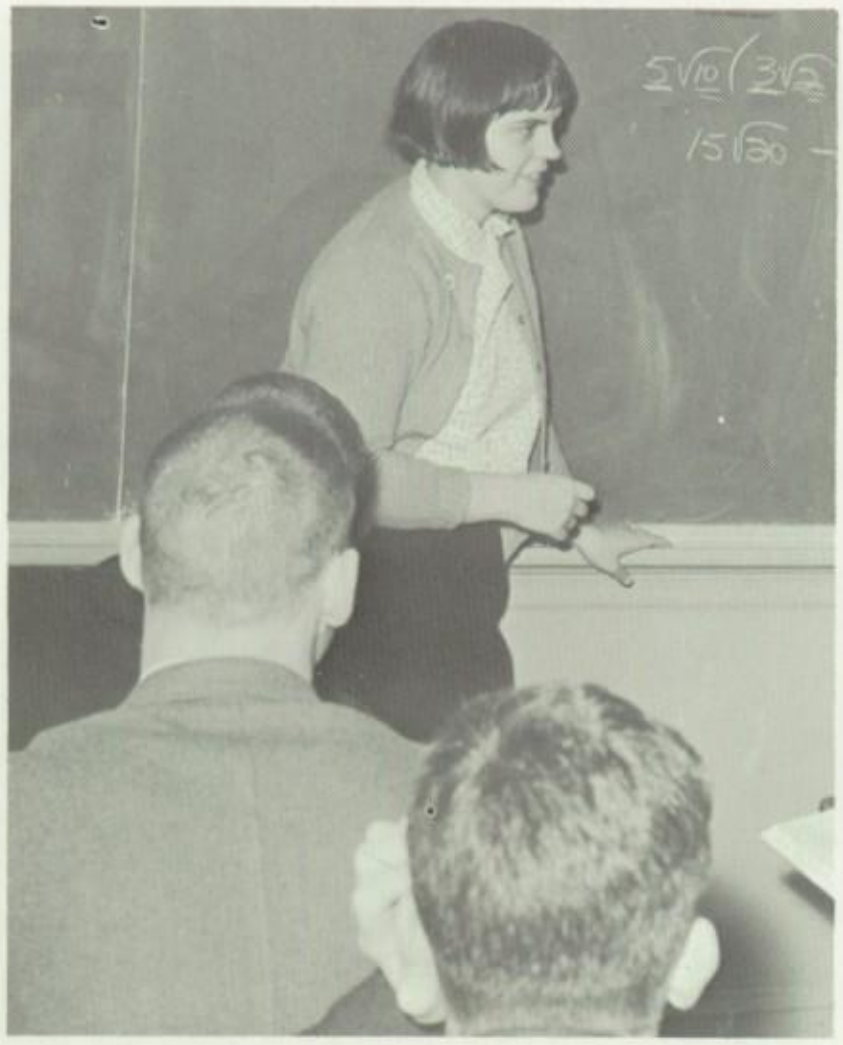
Math Posed Problems and Solutions



Is the question right or wrong? Only Mrs. Needham knows for sure.

In the mathematics department this year, teachers strived to get their students to appreciate the importance of math for intelligent and useful citizenship.

The first math course undertaken by students was either eighth grade math, with its review of fundamentals, or academic math, which laid the foundation for the more advanced courses. Freshmen were perplexed by the simplification of equations in Algebra I.

Sophomores struggled with geometry, which developed the ability to think creatively and to visualize plane and space figures. One of the goals of the juniors in Algebra II and trigonometry was the preparation for math in college or in their chosen field. Seniors who took consumer's problems learned of the practical applications of math. Academic minded seniors concluded their math courses here at L.C.H.S. with advanced math. They pursued their study of Algebra II before advancing to more complicated problems of mathematical analysis.

Students United with the Scientific Age

Recognizing the necessity of a broad knowledge of science in this atomic age, L.C.H.S. students participated vigorously in the sciences offered this year.

Eighth graders were introduced to elementary biology and chemistry. Perplexed by a brief course in physics, freshmen also enjoyed the study of earth sciences. Academic sophomores concentrated on a detailed course in biology as they dissected everything from starfish to frogs. Awed by atoms, nuclei, and chemical reactions, juniors accepted chemistry as a difficult but interesting science. Seniors pursued diligently the study of light and forces in physics.

Thus equipped with a basic knowledge of science, L.C.H.S. students felt prepared to face the fast-moving pace of this scientific age.

Wow! Concentration is the name of the game!!!

A goal of the history department this year was to instill within the students of L.C.H.S. a knowledge of United States and world affairs, as well as to increase their understanding of history.

In order to gain a broad awareness of the world's development into nations and how these nations formed their various governments, academically minded sophomores and freshmen studied world history. Non-academic freshmen and sophomores increased their knowledge of the earth's land formations through the study of geography. As they traced America's development into a powerful nation in American history, juniors acquired a sense of pride in their country.

The U. S. system of government was brought forth to seniors in American government classes, while eighth graders were introduced to government procedures in civics.

All history classes devoted time to the discussion of current events, which kept the students enlightened about the changes in the world around them.

In Mr. Brantley's fifth period government class, Sammy Hix expounds on another one of his usual filibusters.

Louisa High Band Placed First in Orange Parade

Snappy marching routines and lively music described the Louisa County High School band this year. Under the direction of Mr. B. G. Wharton, the thirty-five member band boosted school spirit and morale at pep rallies and football games. New majorette routines and a fourteen drummer corps added vitality and "soul" to the band.

Long hours of tiring practice proved to be worthwhile as the combined band and choral groups presented a Christmas concert and other special programs during the year.

"Practice makes perfect" is the motto of these band students.

Since today's business world is in constant demand of the educated, Louisa County High School has continued to offer a wide range of business courses.

Future secretaries acquired the skills and knowledge needed for their jobs from typing and shorthand.

To extend their understanding of business law and transactions, students studied business principles and general business. Bookkeeping taught the fundamentals of record keeping, payrolls, and accounting.

Having received a solid background in business classes, commercial students were ready to seek their vocation in the business world.

Vocational students advanced with great strides this year, as future farmers and homemakers accepted the many challenges presented in their various classes. Under the direction of Mrs. Jessie Dunn and Mrs. Louise Penington, home economics students progressed daily as each girl learned the responsibility of managing a home and of raising a family. Increasing her knowledge of meal planning and sewing, each girl felt well-prepared to begin her career as a homemaker.

The addition of horticulture and flower-arranging classes stimulated interest in the Agriculture Department, as future farmers continued to study management of livestock, forestry, crop raising, and soil judging. This department also sponsored the Future Farmers of America and the K.V.G.

Supplying the need for comprehensive vocational instruction, these departments greatly enriched the lives of their participants.

To reach an emotional and physical well-being was the aim of the physical education department during the year. The twelve physical education classes achieved this goal through exercises and participation in team sports such as soccer, volleyball, basketball, and softball. Striving to maintain interesting, as well as informative classes, the coaches also taught square dancing and tumbling.

In the classroom, eighth graders and sophomores were taught health while freshmen studied first aid and a manual for driver's training.

Under the instruction of Coaches Lindsay and Woolfolk and Michael Eberbaugh, sophomores, juniors, and seniors experienced behind the wheel training as the final part of their driver's education. Gaining experience in actual driving situations, students were then prepared to accept the responsibility of handling a car alone.

Adequate School Staff Served LCHS

All play and no work makes for no food.

Each day this year, L.C.H.S. students were greeted by delicious aromas as they filed into the cafeteria for lunch. Sumptuous baked rolls, lucious desserts, and varied main courses were prepared by Mrs. Eunice Fisher, Mrs. Holley, Mrs. Helen Fisher, and Mrs. Clatterbuck. The lunch room staff was thankful to have the use of many modern utilities to make wholesome lunches and which also provided less work for them.

We also are truly indebted to our school custodians, Mr. Houchens and Mr. Thacker, for keeping the cafeteria, halls, and classrooms clean.

Mr. Kaslow and Mr. Needham discuss an important topic over a midday meal.

Diplomas Received by Ninety Seniors

Entering Louisa County High School in August of 1963, one-hundred and thirty-seven eighth graders, excited but dubious about their future, undertook the task of maturing physically as well as mentally over a period of five years. Helga Kosmahly, as president, led them through the novel experiences of adjusting to high school life.

In the following year, the class began to create an impression at L.C.H.S. by participating in clubs and sports. Foreseeing the future need for money, the energetic freshmen began raising money under the leadership of Emmy Jo Southard.

Maintaining the hectic pace of participating in extra-curricular activities and earning money, the sophomores were led by Deborah Dymacek as they sponsored the annual Miss L.C.H.S. Beauty Contest, in which one of their classmates, Geraldine Wilson, was crowned Miss L.C.H.S.

As juniors, president Mary Holley and the class of 1968 struggled to obtain permission to present the long-awaited Junior-Senior Prom. Their quest proved successful as couples took "A Voyage Around the World" on a May night. However these juniors were also serious-minded as many college-bound students faced college boards and PSAT tests. Seven juniors were inducted into the National Honor Society and three were tapped into the Quill and Scroll.

As senior class president, A. G. Shiflett led them through the most important and eventful year at L.C.H.S. Increasing the class treasury with a magazine drive, the seniors were able to hold a senior party and banquet after graduation. Constantly maintaining their high scholastic averages, three of their classmates were inducted into the Quill and Scroll and one into N.H.S. Mary Holley was chosen from seven princesses to reign as Homecoming Queen for 1967-68. Commencement exercises were held in the gymnasium as ninety-three proud seniors received their diplomas.

Thompson Headed Class of 1969

For their busy and exciting fourth year at L.C.H.S., the juniors elected Tommy Thompson, President; Jerl Hiter, Vice-President; Virginia Chisholm, Secretary; and Cindy Hayes, Treasurer. Chosen to guide their activities for the coming year were Mr. Joe Bradford, Miss Gerri Alexander, and Mr. George Ganiaris.

In preparation for college, many juniors undertook the required College Boards and Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Tests. Approximately thirty juniors attended College Night at Albemarle High School and consulted with representatives from colleges of their choice.

Although there were only a few money-raising projects for the entire year, the juniors worked diligently to earn money for a doubtful Junior-Senior Prom.

Of course, the most important event of the year came in January with the arrival of the class rings. As the juniors proudly displayed their rings, they realized that they were one step closer to the completion of their education.

Class President

With a total of one hundred and twenty-eight students, the class of 1970 eagerly barged their way through the doors of L.C.H.S. as it opened for its 1967-68 session. Choosing Miss Flynn and Mrs. Edwards as their class sponsors, the sophomore class took on many money-making projects in anticipation of the Junior-Senior Prom.

Although the class took on numerous school activities and supported their team with the real feeling of school spirit, they kept up their scholastic average.

The officers representing the sophomore class were as follows: President, John Hix; Vice President, Rosebud Woolfolk; and Secretary-Treasurer, Ruth Lloyd.

Eighth Graders Enthusiastically Elected Officers

This class of one hundred and seventy-four excited eighth graders was the largest ever to enter L.C.H.S. Never lagging behind in adjusting to the thrilling life at L.C.H.S., the class of '72 readily began their expedition of high school life by joining various clubs and organizations.

The boys displayed their talents by joining F.F.A., J. V. football, basketball, and baseball. Once meek girls evolved into rough and ready basketball players, with other interests, including band, choral, and the S.C.A.

Providing enthusiastic yelling and screaming at pep rallies, football and basketball games, this class willingly gave their support.

Receiving guidance from Mrs. Newman and Mr. Dabney, the eighth graders prepared to face the next four years at L.C.H.S. with eager anticipation.

ACTIVITIES

District SCA Meeting Held at LCHS

Following their faculty-student affiliation, the L.C. H.S. Student Co-operation Association continued to intermediate in school problems. To become better acquainted with the goals and activities of the various clubs and organizations within the school, the S.C.A. this year formed the Inter-Club Council.

The S.C.A.'s big project of the year was the adoption of a six year old orphan girl, Yung Mi Kwan. The entire school wholeheartedly supported the idea of aiding an unfortunate child, and the donations for her welfare were generous. The student body eagerly awaited the replies to our numerous letters.

One of the most notable and rewarding events was the Piedmont District S.C.A. meeting, which was held at our school and was directed by Mrs. Sally Johnson, S.C.A. sponsor. District President, Virginia Chisholm, and L.C.H.S. student, presided. The students divided into different groups to discuss the role of the S.C.A. in the school in conjunction with the theme "It Grows as It Goes."

As indicated by this theme our S.C.A. grew as it progressed, expanding to meet the student body's every need. This year the S.C.A. made special efforts to keep the pupil-administrative relationship operating smoothly.

President, Bobby Marshall, discusses plans for adopting Yung Mi Kwan, a Korean orphan.

Homecoming Deemed Memorable Event

Mary Holley, one of the Homecoming princesses, is presented to the student body.

One of the biggest events of the year was that of Homecoming. Although the annual bonfire pep rally was cancelled because of rain, it did not dampen L.C. H.S. spirit. An impromptu pep rally was held Friday afternoon in the gymnasium.

Earlier in the week the seven princesses chosen by the football team were presented in an assembly. The seven senior girls were Maureen Corle, Deborah Dymacek, Mary Alice Hodges, Mary Holley, Judy Johnson, Helga Kosmahly, and Emmy Jo Southard. At halftime of the Homecoming game the tension mounted as last year's queen, Linda Lanahan, stepped onto the field to crown the lucky girl. There was a burst of applause and cheers as she placed the glittering crown on a beaming Mary Holley.

Excitement ran high as our team played hard against the powerful Goochland Bulldogs. Despite our defeat and a school board ruling against a dance, Homecoming remained a memorable weekend for everyone.

These Quill and Scroll members search for journalistic ideas for their school publication.

The Quill and Scroll, an international honorary society for high school journalists, recognized the individual achievements of ten upperclassmen at L.C.H.S. this year.

This was indeed an honor for these students, for to become members they had to be juniors or seniors in the upper third of their class who had done prominent work in the field of journalism. They were recommended by the advisors of the school's publications, The Rebel and The Core.

After an initiation fee was paid, each member received the official pin of the Quill and Scroll and a one year subscription to the magazine of the society.

The 1967-68 members were: Brenda Chisholm, Virginia Chisholm, Vonnie Colvin, Anne Daniel, Deborah Dymacek, Jackie Harris, Judy Johnson, Helga Kosmahly, Bobby Marshall, Nancy Marshall, Judy McGehee, Ann Morris, and Jane Woodward.

The National Honor Society, an organization for students who excel in the fields of scholarship, leadership, character, and service, was installed here at L.C.H.S. in 1956. This year, as always, the members of this organization strived to create an enthusiasm for scholarship, a desire to render service, the urge to lead, and the development of high character in the students of Louisa County High School. On the basis of their individual qualifications, one senior and eight juniors were inducted into the National Honor Society in an impressive ceremony before the entire student body. At that time they were awarded their membership insignia signed the roll book, and repeated the National Honor Society oath. The deserving students were Steve Williams, C. B. Butler, Jr., Virginia Chisholm, Vonnie Colvin, John Massie, Jr., Ann Morris, Virginia Pierce, Linda Ware, and Jane Woodward.

Under the leadership of Judy Johnson, the members sent Christmas cards to local boys in Viet Nam and Korea. They also gave household items to a family whose home had been burned. Plans were made for the annual picnic to be held in the spring.

Officiating over the activities of the N.H.S. during 1967-68 were Judy Johnson, President; Bobby Marshall, Vice-President; Charlotte Marks, Secretary-Treasurer; with Mrs. Eugenia Bumpass and Mr. Lester Brantley as sponsors.

Club Provided Toys for Needy Children

An honor organization sponsored by the Rotary International, the Interact Club consisted of eighteen freshman, sophomore, junior, and senior boys, who strived diligently to maintain the high standard which characterize the club.

These energetic boys undertook lucrative projects such as a car wash and their annual Labor Auction at which each boy was sold to the highest bidder for a day's work. For their donation of twenty-five dollars in the S.C.A.'s fund drive to adopt a child overseas, this club was recognized as the largest contributor and was awarded the opportunity to choose the nationality and age of the child.

At Christmas, the Interact Club provided needy children with toys which were received as part of the admission of their annual Sweetheart Dance. As couples danced to the music of "Creeper and the Vidells," Deborah Dymacek reigned over the dance as Sweetheart of 1967-68.

The club also performed the daily services of posting the menu and raising the flag and of collecting money at L.C.H.S. sports events.

Presiding officers were Steve Sheridan, President; Brooks Besley, Vice-President; Edwin Keller, Secretary-Treasurer; A. G. Shifflet, Sergeant-at-Arms; Albert Amick, Chaplain; Joe Polis, Parliamentarian; and Bobby Marshall, Steve Williams, Mickey Kent, Tommy Thompson, and Jerl Hiter as the Board of Directors. Sponsors for this year were Mr. Lindsay Woolfolk and Mr. Michael Eberbaugh.

Co-operation and genuine effort characterized the yearbook staff this year as they endeavored to produce a comprehensive and interesting record of the school's activities.

The division of the Core staff into two separate staffs, business and editorial, greatly increased efficiency. Work for the business staff began in the summer, with the task of soliciting ads. During the school year, they sold subscriptions to the L.C.H.S. students and handled the finances. The yearbook was designed entirely by the editorial staff, who took pictures, drew layouts, and wrote copy.

The yearbook staff is truly indebted to Mrs. Nancy Woodward, whose supervision enabled them to publish this annual successfully.

Newspaper Received First Prize at SIPA

The major purpose of the Rebel, the L.C.H.S. student paper, was to keep the students well informed of school activities near and around them. It was entirely self supporting, and dealt not only with current events, but also, and more important, with the voice of student opinion which appeared in such forms as sports, news, and editorial articles by students, and in such features as "Rebel Rouser" and "Roving Reporter."

A participating member of S.I.P.A. and the Columbia Press Association, the Rebel Staff was in its fifth year as a printed paper. Under the successful editing of Pam Henderson in 1966, it received a first prize at the annual S.I.P.A. convention - quite an honor for any paper.

During lunch, Virginia Chisholm and Nancy Marshall sell Barbara Bowles the latest edition of the Rebel.

New Math Club

Examined Stocks

The Math Club, a newly organized club, was restricted to juniors and seniors taking Algebra II and advanced math. The members of this club were able to probe the more interesting aspects of math, which couldn't be discussed in routine classes. Miss Lucy Lee Wilkins, a stock broker with a Richmond firm, gave an interesting talk concerning stocks - how to invest in them and the advantages of doing this. Deborah Dymacek was elected president of the club with Steve Crawford as Vice President and Sammy Hix as Secretary. Mr. and Mrs. Needham and Miss Cox served as sponsors.

Scholarship Given

by FTA

Consisting primarily of college bound students, the Future Teachers of America strived to instill in each participant the qualities that constitute a good teacher.

This year's activities of the F.T.A. included bake sales in the fall and spring to help raise a seventy-five dollar scholarship which was awarded to a deserving senior. The club also enjoyed film strips pertaining to "Teaching As a Career" and "Planning for College."

At Christmas, the F.T.A. decorated the hall with the traditional Christmas tree. In May this group held its annual picnic at which the officers for next year were installed.

The officers for 1967-68 were: President, Deborah Dymacek; Vice-President, Vonnie Colvin; Secretary-Treasurer; Emmy Jo Southard; Parliamentarian, Patty Daniel; Historian, Rosebud Woolfolk.

Ex Libris Rendered Library Assistance

This year the Ex Libris Club continued to render service to L.C.H.S. students. The club consisted of those who were willing to devote their time to learning more about the function of a smoothly run library and how to encourage the reading of good literary material. Besides helping students with books, the library assistants also spent a few periods listening to lectures given to individual sections. These were given by Mrs. Eugenia Bumpass who taught the basic functions and uses of a library. After the classes, members helped students with individual problems most capably.

Ex Libris had monthly meetings and an array of programs throughout the year. Slides of Germany and the western quarter of the United States were two such activities. As a finishing touch for the year, hard working members received the much earned reward of a trip to see Camelot at the Virginia Museum Theatre.

Presiding this year were: President, Maureen Corle; Vice-President, Sandra Mahanes; Secretary-Treasurer, Brenda Brooks; and Parliamentarian, Wanda Shaw.

Mock Election Held in November

To coincide with the Louisa County elections in November, L.C.H.S. held a mock election at the same time in order to acquaint the students with procedures of county government.

The Nationalist party, led by Bobby Marshall, and the Federalist party, led by Steve Sheridan, held conventions in order to choose candidates for the ten offices.

Each candidate was required to present a petition signed by twenty-five students and two teachers. A supervisor's office only required the signatures of ten students.

At the campaign assembly the party leaders presented their candidates to the student body.

The following successful candidates spent the day with the county officials: Sheriff, Virginia Chisholm; County Clerk; Brooks Besley; Treasurer, Gerry Halterman; Commissioner of Revenue, Randy Smith; Commonwealth Attorney, Sammy Hix. Supervisors: Louisa, Wayne Poore; Mineral, Dickie Dickinson; Jackson, Jackie Harris; Green Springs, A. G. Shifflett; Cuckoo, Steve McClary.

Valuable Information Gained at SIPA

This year five delegates from the yearbook and newspaper staffs left on March 30 for the annual Southern Interscholastic Press Association Convention in Lexington, Virginia. The representatives from the Rebel staff were Helga Kosmahly, Nancy Marshall, and Virginia Chisholm, with their sponsor, Mr. Lester Brantley. The Core staff sent Anne Daniel, and Jane Woodward, with Mrs. Nancy Woodward as sponsor.

At the convention the delegates attended meetings on financing, editing, editorials, photography, layout, copy, and design.

Copies of the publications of the two staffs were judged and returned with scores and remarks. The delegates returned home on April 1, with new and exciting ideas for next year's annual and newspapers.

S.I.P.A. delegates review criticisms of their respective school publications.

Delegates Probed

State Government

Sponsored by the American Legion Post and Rotary Club, four juniors chosen by their classmates attended Boys'-Girls' State last summer. Steve Sheridan and Bobby Marshall attended the College of William and Mary, while Mary Holley and Judy Johnson attended Radford College, where the respective sessions met.

Upon arrival, the participants were divided into cities, each of approximately fifty people, and were then divided into Nationalist and Federalist Parties.

Other activities during the week consisted of city caucuses and elections, party conventions and elections, talent night, and special entertainment. Highlighting the week was the inauguration of the state officers at the week's end.

Having experienced an educational and morally refreshing week, the Louisa representatives returned with a greater understanding of the workings of the state government.

Farm Safety Award at Convention

The Future Farmers of America, sponsored by the Louisa County High School agricultural department, remained one of the most active organizations in the school. Consisting of 190 members, the club strived to develop in each boy agricultural leadership, co-operation, citizenship, organized recreation, and patriotism.

Projects undertaken by this energetic group were the donation of toys to needy children at Christmas, and the donation of twenty-five dollars to the Louisa Medical Center, to the Rescue Squad, and to the school office.

Outstanding in agricultural achievements, the F.F.A. won top honors at the State Fair. At the State F.F.A. Convention in Blacksburg, the Louisa Chapter was awarded the State Farm Safety Award. Steve Williams and Mr. Gray Bradford traveled to Kansas City, Missouri, to accept this award at the National F.F.A. Convention.

Band Performed at Assemblies

Under the instruction of a new director, Mr. B. G. Wharton, the Louisa County High School band spent long hours diligently rehearsing music and marching routines. This energetic group invigorated L.C.H.S. students at football games and pep rallies. They provided entertainment during a Christmas assembly with the combined band and choral groups participating.

Louisa's twirlers this year possessed a marching ability and twirling action that added special highlights to the marching band.

Patrolers Stressed School Bus Safety

The Safety Patrol crew strived diligently to promote school bus safety this year. To enforce discipline on the bus and to hold the flag were the primary duties of the patrolers. Each officer also was prepared to assist the bus driver when needed.

Whenever a serious disciplinary problem arose, assistant principal, Mr. Harry Pardue, dealt with it and tried to encourage each student to assume the responsibility of making bus travel safe and efficient.

Vipperman Viewed as Outstanding Scorer

Good sportsmanship and team spirit were shown by the Junior Varsity football team this year, as they engaged in exciting clashes with tough teams.

Coached by Mr. Joe Bradford, the Little Rebs displayed much improvement and great ability during the season. Excellent offensive performances were shown by James Sims and Robert Vipperman, who was second high central Virginia scorer. Good team defense was led by Buster Chambers. With the steady leadership of quarterback, John Lancaster, the team ended the season with four wins and two losses.

Varsity Cagers Placed First in Northern

The 1967-68 Rebel basketball team finished its most successful season by compiling an overall record of fifteen wins and six losses. While averaging 57.2 points per game, the Rebels hald opposing teams to a mere 43.3 points per game. Out of a team total of 1203 points for the season, Bobby Marshall scored 338 points and Russell King was second high scorer with 262 points. Brooks Besley maintained a high shooting percentage of 56.5%. Defensively, Louisa pulled down an average of 38.6 rebounds per game as opponents averaged 29.4. Marshall and King also held first and second place in rebounding with totals of 274 and 154, respectively.

Coached by Mr. Michael Eberbaugh, the team adequately lived up to their praiseworthy reputation. Outstanding ability coupled with teamwork led the Varsity cagers through a successful season to the finals in the District Tournament. At the tournament Brooks Besley and Bobby Marshall were honored with positions on the all-tournament team.

Louisa County High School boasted a team of boys who displayed good sportsmanship, excellent co-ordination, and most of all—trophies for the runner-up in the Group II District II Tournament and for the Group II District II Northern Division Champions.

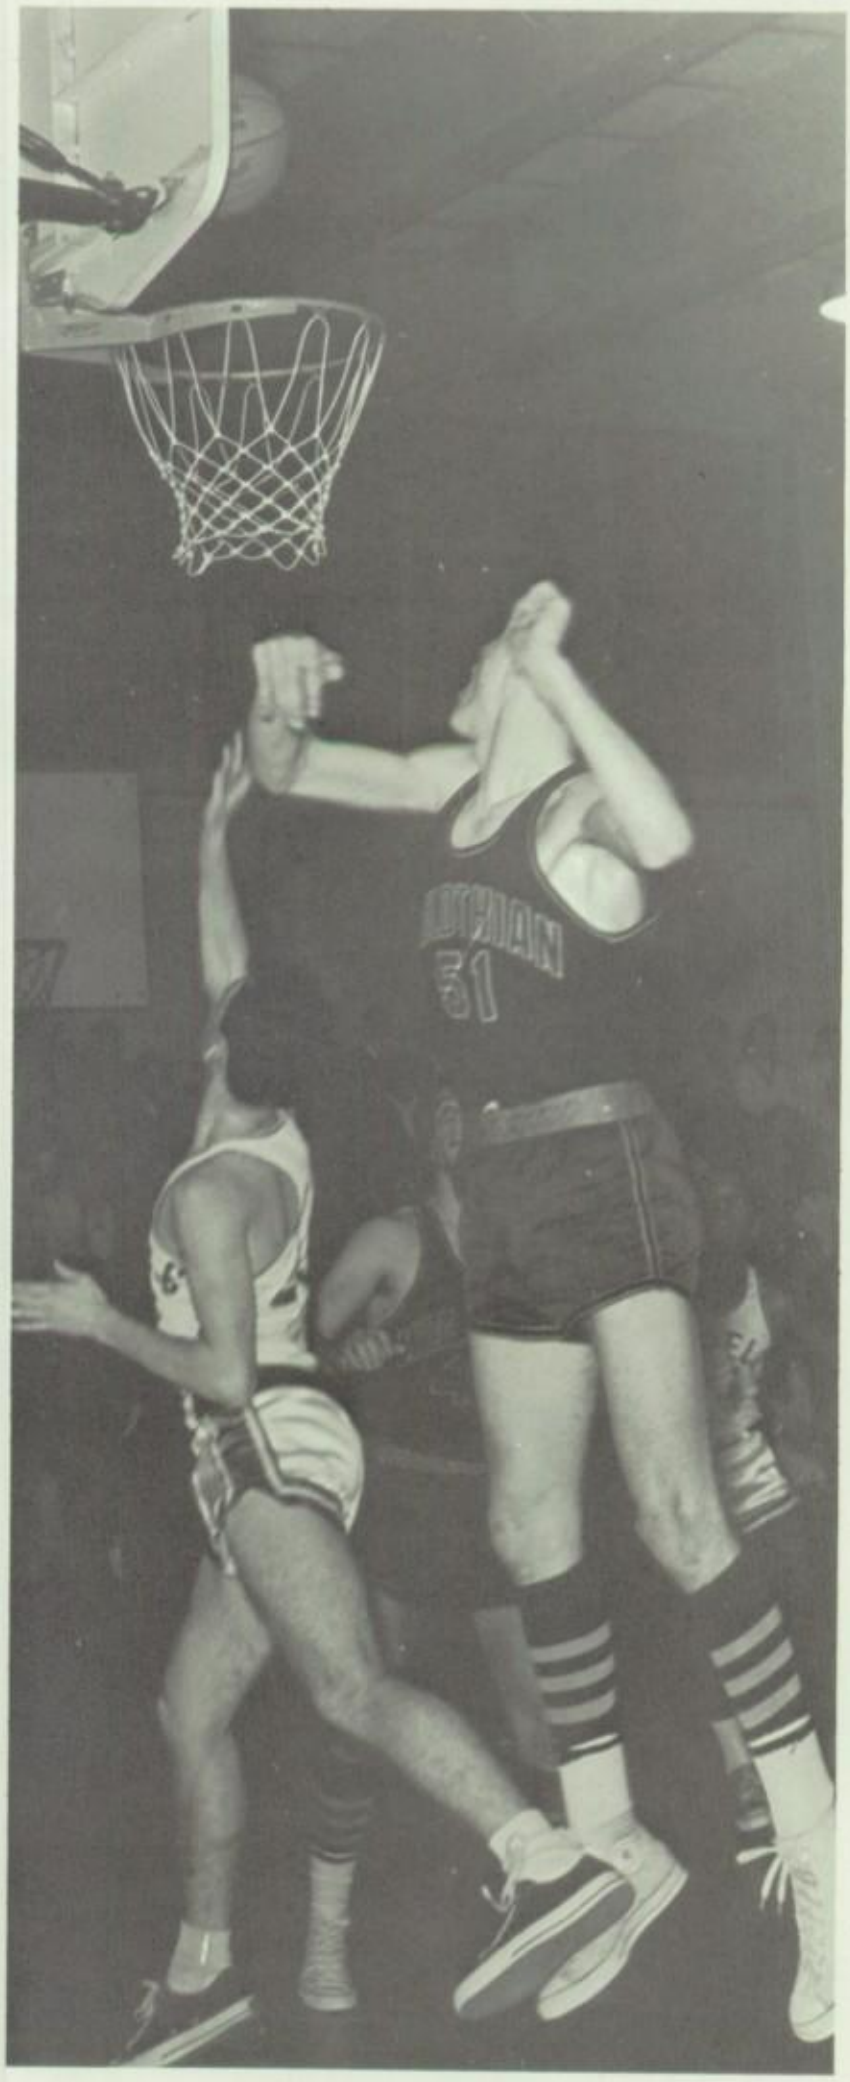
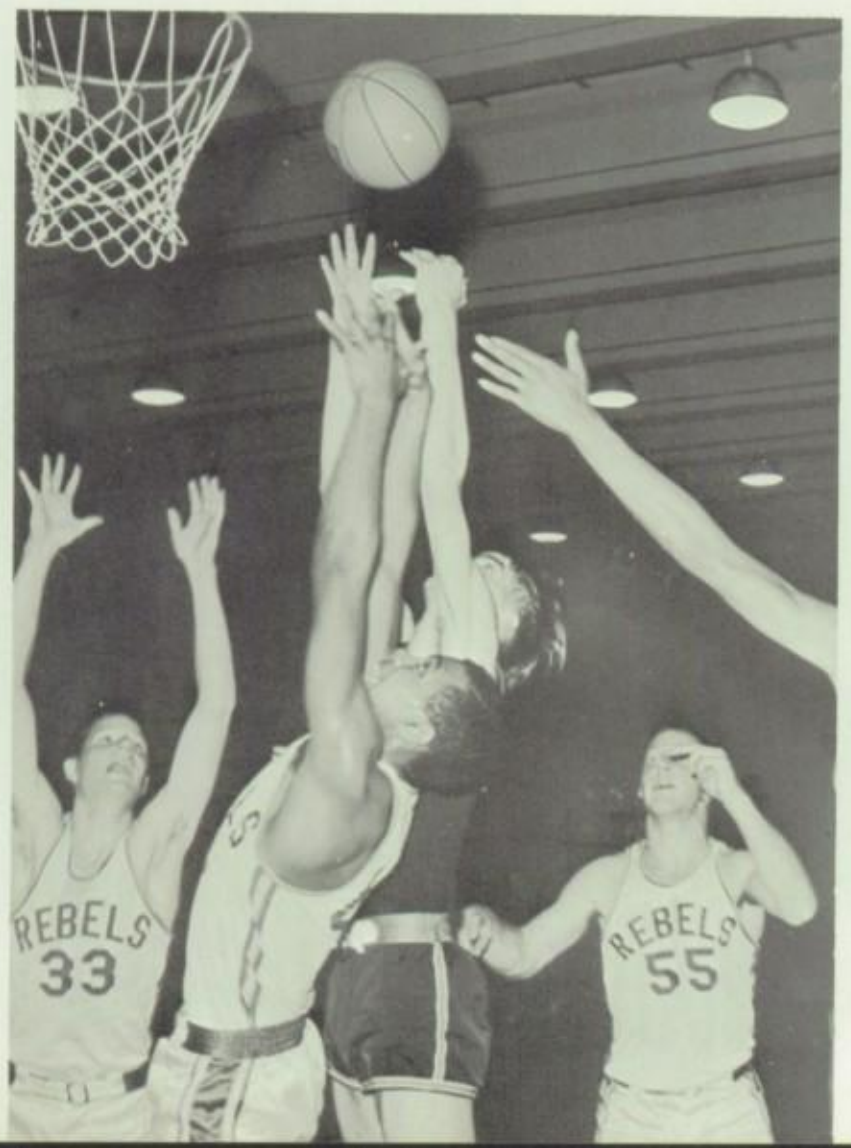
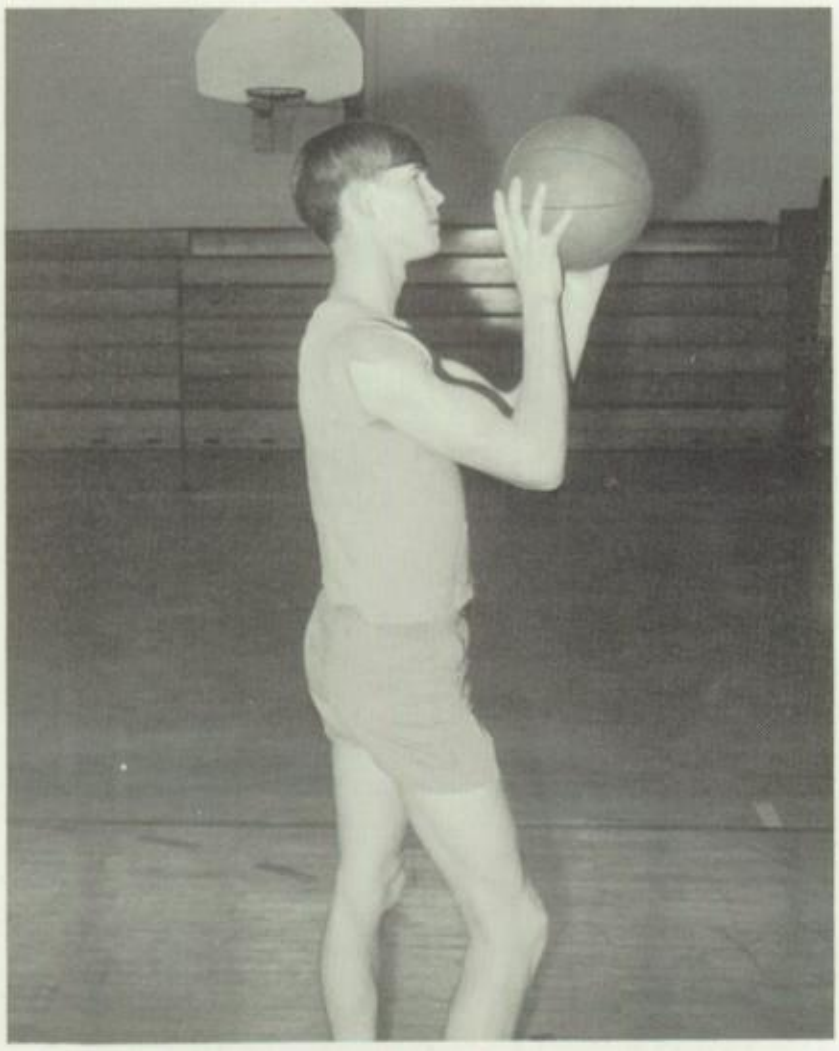
Sammy Hix outmaneuvers a Midlothian player to "rack up" another two points for L.C.H.S.



The ball is up for grabs. Will Russell King or his William Monroe opponent get the rebound?





Bill Lanahan prepares to make another one of his spectacular foul shots.

Strong competition was displayed in the Junior Varsity basketball games this season. Coached by Mr. Lindsay Woolfolk, the J.V.'s learned basketball fundamentals and gained valuable experience during their games.

Aided by Bill Lanahan, who joined the team in mid-season, William Quarles, John Lancaster, and Robert Vipperman led the team as they began to successfully work plays and as they learned the value of teamwork.

These Varsity baseball players really get warmed-up for the baseball season.

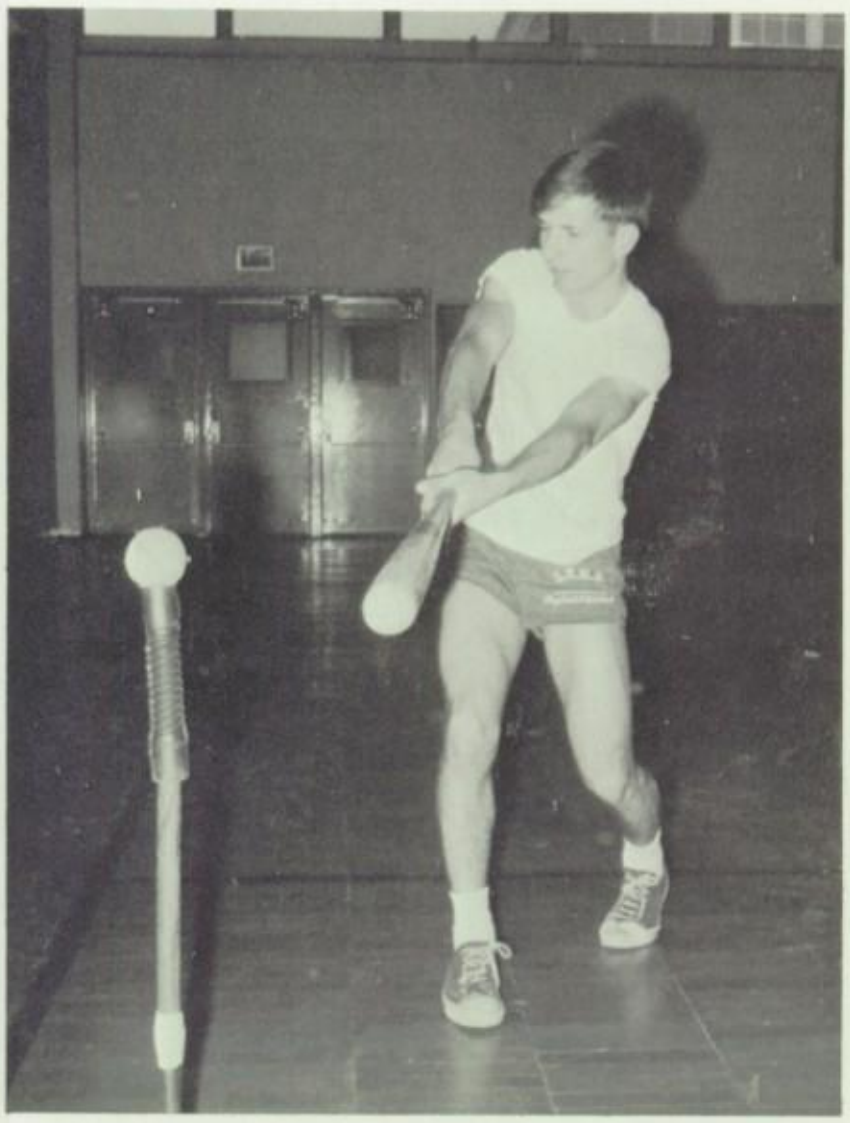
District Title Reclaimed by Team

The L.C.H.S. Varsity Baseball team ended their season with a record of 13-1 and also with their second consecutive District Championship.

During the season, in a game with Scottsville, Coach Norman Smith obtained his one hundredth victory while managing the Louisa County High School baseball team. Disappointed by the announcement that Coach Smith would resign from coaching at the close of the 1967 season, the team presented him with a gift for his outstanding coaching throughout the years.

Superb pitching was exhibited by B. H. Kent with Punk Baker and David Harris as alternates. Outstanding outfielders were: Dwight Rigsby, leftfield; Steve Sheridan, centerfield; Punk Baker, rightfield; Gerald Hopkins, third base; A. G. Shiflett, short stop; Mickey Kent, second base; David Harris, first base; and Donnie Harris, catcher.

That's right, Donnie! You've got the idea, now hit it with all your might!



No-Hitter Pitched against Powhatan

Although they were defeated by Albemarle in their opening game, the J.V. baseball team swept through their season with nine wins and only three losses.

Helping to obtain this outstanding record were the three pitchers Robert Leake, Donnie Beverley, and Johnny Hix, with pitching averages of 3-1, 3-2, and 2-1, respectively. A high batting average of .405 was achieved by Ronnie Cutwright.

The J.V. season was highlighted by Johnny Hix's no-hitter game with Powhatan in which C. B. Butler made an outstanding catch for the last play of the game and saved Johnny's no-hitter.

Coached by Mr. Joe Bradford, C. B. Butler played first base; Bill Clough, second base; Ronnie Cutwright, third base; Larry Ferguson, short stop; Johnny Hix, leftfield; Donnie Beverly, centerfield; Lewis Tiller, rightfield; Wayne Plunkett, catcher; and Robert Leake, pitcher.

Larry Ferguson practices up on his outfield pitching.

Trackmen Set District Records

Ten of the fourteen existing school records fell as the 1967 L.C.H.S. trackmen captured second place in the district and thirteenth place in the state.

Oscar Jefferson set district records in the 100 yard and 220 yard dashes, 10.15 and 22.4, respectively. Joe Reidlebach set a district record of 16.5 in the 120 yard high hurdles and a school record of 22.5 in the 180 yard low hurdles. Ronnie Laws made a district time of 2.08 in the 880 yard run. Other school records included Steve Montgomery's 46' 3" put of the shot and 139' 3½" toss of the discus; Barry Noel's leap of 5' 7" in the high jump; and Bobby Runquist's vault of 9' 6" in the pole vault. Eric Kuhfahl, Dennie McDonald, Mike Long, and Oscar Jefferson set a record of 1.38 in the 880 yard relay.

Cindy Hayes screens for Deborah Dymacek as she shoots "two".

The record of six losses and no wins may have given the impression of a bad season for the Varsity Rebelettes, but a simple record does not always tell the complete story. With only five lettermen returning, the team was handicapped by a lack of experienced and reserve players. However, the girls never lost their spirit and determination, and there were always six vivacious players on the court when game time rolled around.

The team's coach, Miss Kathleen Flynn, and co-captains, Judy Johnson and Mary Holley, deserved much credit for the team's spirit, and for a job well done.

At the annual banquet Mary Holley and Deborah Dymacek received blazers for three years of Varsity participation. Judy Johnson, Cindy Hayes, and Beulah Perkins received bars for two years of Varsity participation. Vonnie Colvin, Ann Morris, Donna Sharpe, and Gwen Hill were awarded Varsity letters.

With only four experienced players and eight new girls, the Junior Varsity Rebelettes started the '67 season hoping to claim many wins. Rosebud Woolfolk and Patti Daniel were chosen to be this year's co-captains.

At practice the girls went through a series of strenuous exercises, ran sprints, and scrimmaged to get in shape for the games to come. Their new coach, Miss Judy Hillers, and their managers, Mary Alice Noel and Paula Poore, encouraged the girls to play their best, and to always exhibit good sportsmanship. Although their record was 0-6, the girl's were always "hustling", hoping for a victory.

The season ended with the annual banquet, sponsored by the Women's Club. Receiving certificates for their second year of participation were Rosebud Woolfolk, Sarah Lupton, Patti Daniel, and Annabelle Sharpe. Those receiving J.V. letters were Becky Massie, Nancy Massie, Gloria Brooks, Monica Long, Patty Deal, Debbie Estes, Jennifer Pleasants, and Annette West.

Spirited Cheers

What's this? Who are those J. V. cheerleaders putting the jinx on now?

Again this year the J. V. cheerleaders have helped to keep school spirit at its peak. They stirred enthusiasm and boosted morale at the many J. V. sports events. With long hours of practice, these girls strived for perfection. The squad was constantly endeavoring to produce new cheers that would prove helpful in cheering the team on to victory.

During the summer, the J. V.'s busied themselves by soliciting ads for football programs. They also represented L.C.H.S. at many local parades.

The 1967-68 squad consisted of Myra Noel, Head Cheerleader; Suzanne Borden, Carol Hart, Barbara Noel, Betty Rae Vaughan, Julia Woody, and Debbie Woolfolk. The sponsors for the squad were Miss Jayne Cox and Miss Geraldine Alexander.

The cheer, "Thunderation", shakes the Grange Hall Hilltoppers.

Morale Boosted by Varsity Cheerleaders

In order to perform their best at each game, the Varsity cheerleaders devised new and interesting cheers that instilled within L.C.H.S. students a fervid enthusiasm for the team. By promoting good sportsmanship and school spirit, the squad helped to maintain high morale during an unsuccessful football season. After a long season of diligent practice and cheering, the girls attended the annual football banquet.

These vibrant cheerers earned the admiration of L.C.H.S. students as they incorporated enthusiasm and sportsmanship into all sports events.

Sponsoring the squad this year were Miss Geraldine Alexander and Miss Jayne Cox. This year's cheerleaders were Carolyn Via, Head Cheerleader; Margaret Chisholm, Cathy Disse, Patsy Hart, Lana Hicks, Nancy Marshall, Sue Martin, Donna Shifflett, and Jo Ann Spicer.

"That's the way to cheer your team on to victory, Sue!"

It's a bird! It's a plane! No, it's Carolyn Via, as Louisa scores again!

"And a merchant said, speak to us of Buying and Selling. It is in exchanging the gifts of the earth that you shall find abundance and be satisfied."

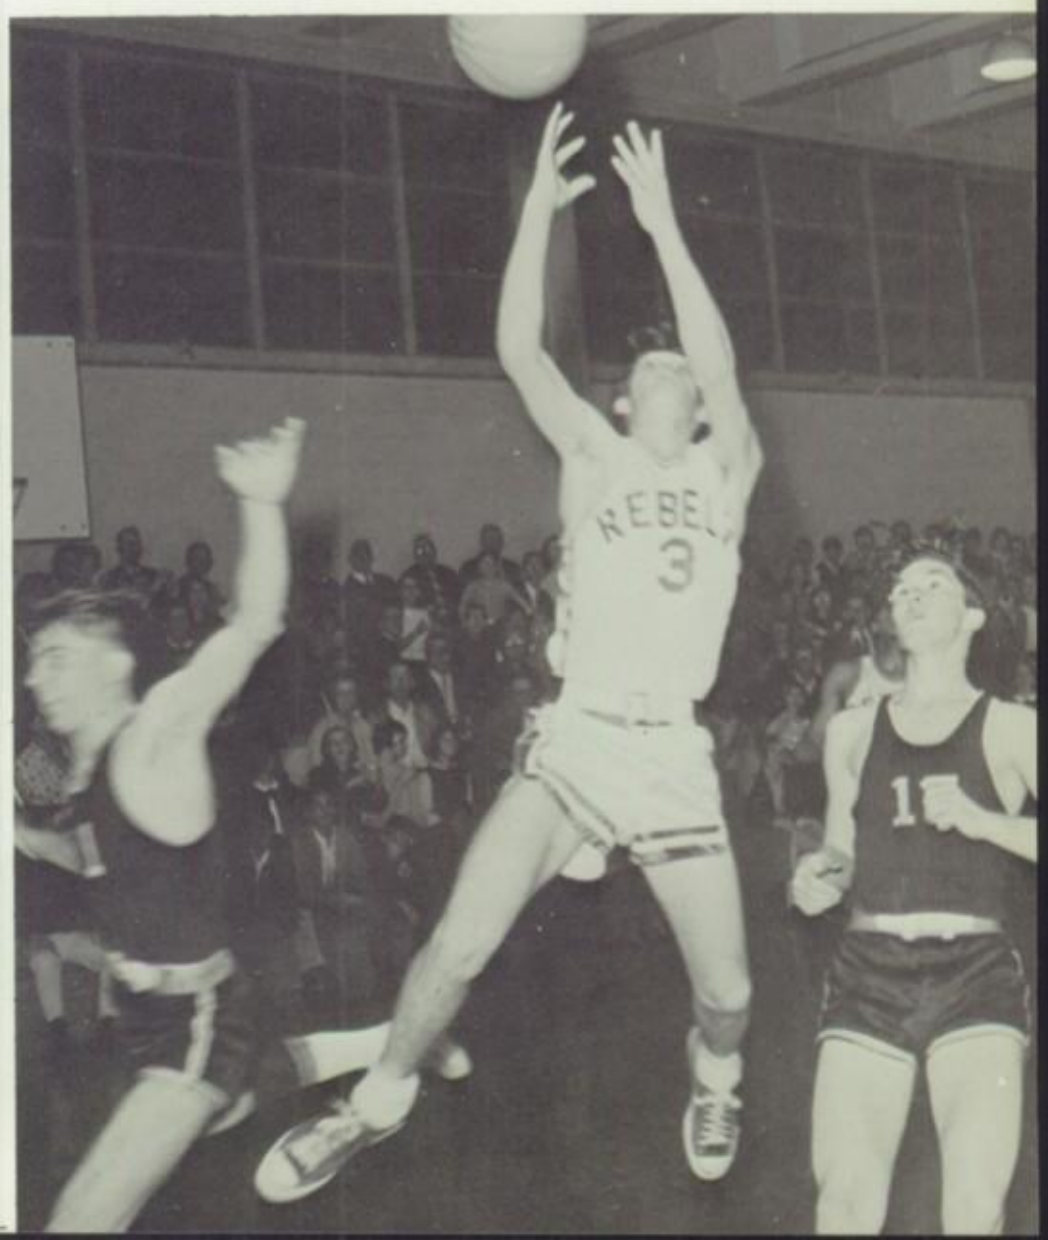
ALL ROOT! Johnny Hix makes a flying leap to "rack up" two points in the Louisa vs. Powhatan game.



On December 13th, 1967, the county of Louisa celebrated its two hundred and twenty-fifth anniversary. Ceremonies were held at Louisa County High School where many county residents heard Governor Mills E. Godwin's speech on the centennial celebration.

In his talk, the governor praised the early Virginia leaders, their high ideals, and their love of freedom. He maintained that even though a tide of new ideas, people, wealth, and adjustments has flooded our state, county, and school, Virginians have still remained the same underneath.

"So long as we retain our reverence for the past, so long as we keep sacred the home and the family, so long as we hold fast to basic values, the surface changes will not matter."

In order to live up to these words, citizens of Virginia, Louisa County, and Louisa County High School must realize that honor and integrity are necessary fundamentals for surviving the day by day crises which endanger their freedom.

As the students of L.C.H.S. mature into citizens of tomorrow, they will be able to adequately uphold their right to citizenship if upon each mind is imprinted indelibly-HONOR ENNOBLES.
